■ Our startup services

There are several ways to structure the financial component of your acquisition. Here are a few of the most popular options that we see on a recurring basis:

Compliance – Whether preparing for an IPO, or pitching a lender investor on funding, ongoing CRA compliance is essential to business success. Zeifmans can help your organization remain compliant with the accounting, operational, tax and financial reporting requirements within Canada and abroad.

Bookkeeping – As your business expands, accurate financial records are critical to protecting wealth and enhancing your profitability.

Financial statements – The accurate data you collect through your financial statements provides an effective gauge for decision making and to keep your business on a growth trajectory, regardless of where you are in the business life cycle.

Utilize government incentives – The Canadian government provides a number of financial incentives for startups, such as SR&ED, making it easier to secure funding and minimize taxation.

Business plans and pro forma financials – A detailed business plan provides you with a strategic foundation, enabling you to approach potential partners with an outline for future success. Zeifmans can assist you in formulating a professionally prepared plan, and filling out all the necessary paperwork.

Corporate structuring – Structured from the beginning. However, as a business grows, it's not uncommon to restructure for improved taxation and financial performance.

Shareholder agreements – Establishing a structure around ownership responsibilities ensures that your company operates according to plan at every stage of the business life cycle. The Zeifmans team offers expert knowledge on cap table strategy, stock options, and IP protection with volunteers.

Board stock option planning – Stock option administration must be conducted in accordance with the law, in order to avoid penalties or regulatory action. Seeking the guidance of a trusted advisor allows you to ensure compliance while meeting your organization's needs.

Compensation strategies – Attracting talent is a common challenge for startups. It's important to keep in mind that financial compensation is not the only strategy for hiring; offering employee benefits like remote work, extended wellness, and lifestyle perks can offset smaller salary budgets.

Tax structuring – It is possible to substantially minimize taxes while still remaining compliant. At Zeifmans, we have decades of experience assisting entrepreneurs in leveraging their personal finances to reduce or eliminate corporate taxation.

Cash flow management – Cash flow is always front of mind for startup ventures. The Zeifmans team pays meticulous attention to detail, crafting personalized strategies that enable our clients to remain ahead of the curve, managing day-to-day expenses while preparing for upcoming opportunities.

Finding capital – In many cases, the next phase of growth requires a boost of capital. Zeifmans can directly introduce to you appropriate lenders and investors, and will be with you every step of the way, as we guide you in painting the perfect canvas in order to position your organization as an attractive, low-risk funding recipient.
